ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Political Science and International Relations (PSIR) is a pivotal optional subject for UPSC aspirants, offering profound insights into the workings of political systems, governance, and global relations. PSIR is favored for its broad coverage and relevance to other parts of the UPSC syllabus, including General Studies and essay writing. The subject consistently yields high scores due to its structured and analytical nature. However, the vast syllabus and the need to integrate theoretical knowledge with current affairs present considerable challenges, making a strategic and guided preparation essential.
